Act One School Series 20-21

Dear Educators,

The resilience of the arts is a wonder to behold. The arts provide comfort, joy, and a sense of community during the most challenging times. Wharton Center Institute for Arts & Creativity is still here and ready to provide programming for you and your students this year.

We are delighted to present the 2020-2021 Act One School season as a series of virtual programs. Filmed plays, storytellers, and music by some of the best artists producing work for grades K-12 is available to you and your students FREE OF CHARGE. We are also offering a professional development opportunity for teachers - Using Hip Hop and Improvisation As A Teaching Tool.

Please follow this simple process to order a virtual show(s) for your students this season:

- 1- Read through the available events at www.whartoncenter.com/education-engagement/act-one-school-series and select the performance(s) you would like to offer to your students.
- 2- Complete the order form and submit it.
- 3- We will send a link to the show/workshop during its available time period.
- 4- You can share the event link with students who are learning remotely or utilize the show in your classroom.

Stay healthy and safe. Help keep the arts a part of your life and the lives of your students by participating in Wharton Center's 2020-21 Act One School Series.

Respectfully,

Bert Goldstein
Director, Wharton Center Institute for Arts & Creativity.
